Workshop is Limited to 12 Artists

Arrival: We encourage you to arrive by 5pm on Sunday, September 26. We will meet informally in the studio for wine and cheese on Sunday evening. This allows us to get acquainted and answer questions, giving students a better start to the workshop.

Weather: The weather is impossible to predict, but students should expect that they will be painting outdoors, possibly in very cool weather. In the case of inclement weather (heavy rain), we will meet and paint in the studio or visit the Farnsworth Museum and Wyeth Center.

Lodging: We will offer suggestions of where to stay while you are here and have arranged a discounted group rate at a local motel. Students are responsible for making reservations and paying for their own lodging. Keep in mind that the Workshop takes place during the local foliage season -- the busiest time of the year in mid-coast Maine. This means that lodging fills up quickly and the sooner you reserve, the better.

Cancellation policy: If you need to cancel, please do so in writing as soon as possible. The $200 deposit will be retained, but you will not be responsible for the balance due. The $1,800 balance is due on August 27. If you cancel AFTER you have paid the balance, we will try to fill the space and return your $1,800. However, if we are unable to fill your space, the full workshop payment will be retained.
